SONG OF THE TYPES.

Click—click,
Go the types in the "stick."
They glide together with ominous sound,
As swiftly the hand that collects them goes round
And arranges them firm in the "stick."
Click—click!

Click—click,
See them now in the "stick;"
What wonderful things they are now as they sit!
One moment 'tis satire, and then it is wit—
Unmeaning when single, combined when they hit
A terrible blow with their click—click,
In putting them up in the "stick."
Click—click

Click—click,
See them now in the "stick!"
To the thief or assassin they sorrow betide,
And the wealthy oppressor in vain tries to glide
Away from their clicking; the world cannot hide
Him away from the sound of that click; click,
In putting up types in the "stick."
Click—click!

Click—click,
As they go in the "stick,"
See guilt, at the sound with a visage of fright,
Recoiling from self by day or by night
As it views with suspicion each method of flight;
But it never can flee from the click—click,
Of putting the types in the "stick."
Click—Click!

Click—click,
Go the types in the "stick."
Monarchs and kings their approaches dread;
They know that with liberty types have been wed;
And visions they see of their thrones blood red,
As they tremblingly bow at the click—click,
Of putting types up in the "stick."
Click—click!

Click—click,
See them now in the "stick."
By the midnight lamp, or the broad sun light,
Still ever they work with power and might!
While their voices, from despots demanding their right,
Is louder, somewhat, than the click—click,
Of putting the types in the "stick."
Click—click!

Click—click,
See them now in the "stick"—
Their loud voices echoing through the world;
At the sound, the bright banner of freedom's unfurled;
Wherever 'tis heard, there tyrants are hurled
From their power by the sound of that click; click,
Of putting the types in the "stick."
Click—click!

Click—click,
Go the types in the "stick."
States, rulers and monarchs, pachas and kings,
The poet, the painter, the minstrel that sings,
Have a most "holy horror" of these little things,
Of the noise that they make, with their click; click,
When setting them into the "stick."
Click—click!

Click—click,
Go the types in the "stick."
To the good and the just—all the nations around,
To "the rest of mankind" and where virtues abound,
With high throbbing hearts, there is welcom'd the sound,
And the noise that is made by the click; click
Of putting types into the "stick."
Click—click!

EAST INDIA JUGGLERS.

An East India correspondent of the New York Post gives the following account of a recent exhibition of the Jugglers in the East, who seem to have lost none of that skill for which they have long since become famous.

"In Madras are found in perfection the celebrated easternly jugglers. Groups of them are daily at the hotels upon the arrival of a steamer, to exhibit their wonderful feats, and receive rupees. Snake-dancing, sword-swallowing, fire eating, tumbling, &c., are shown to crowds who search for amusement. With some others, I hired a party to exhibit on the veranda of the hotel, and I am quite assured of their superiority over all other magicians, professed or amateur, in the world. At the time assigned, they were on the spot arranging their implements, preparatory to great wonders and marvels of deception. While thus preparing, I took a cheroot from its case, the more readily to find out everything about what was going on, and searched among the circle of passengers for a light. Perceiving the desire, one of the jugglers came to me, went through a pantomimic request to regard his face attentively, and commenced blowing like a pair of bellows.

"Much to my surprise a slight stream of smoke issued from his lips, and, finally, a pointed jet of flame, shaped as gracefully as a gaslight and extending two inches in my direction, which he kindly placed at my convenience. I availed myself of it by lighting my cigar, expressed my obligation, and also a desire to examine intrinsically so polite a salamander. I opened his mouth, looked in, looked around, and felt outside, but devil a cause could I discover for the sudden and apropos conflagration! What an agreeable fellow for a windy day, was an inward exclamation; and what a life you may lead without danger of future warmth! But the magic was about to commence, and I forgot my friend with the portable furnace in other wonders, less individual, perhaps, but quite as mysterious. They danced cobra capellos, opening their flat heads to show them sound in fangs and venom-bags, and made them perform a variety of poses. The snakes danced in a circle, kept admirable time with the music, and exhibited the most amiable willingness imaginable to accommodate Europeans. A handful of sand taken from the road was made to mark every color, and finally to produce a shovelfull of every variety, by a simple manual operation.

"Plants grew imperceptibly, balls danced in the air, swords, hooks, jagged pieces of iron and steel were used like sounding leads to penetrate abdomens; eggs made birds, and birds made rabbits, and rabbits, in their turn underwent various formations; common cotton balls moved at command, going away at an immense distance, but returning on the ground very obediently, until we were completely tied up and turned inside out with amazement and credulity. Then came the great feat of the greatest juggler in India; the most notorious and wonderful of descriptions, and "for one night only." The performer, the leader of the party, had rested quietly with his wife and child outside of the circle, watching the entire proceedings of his men, and noting of the general effect upon the assemblage. At the conclusion of announcement proportionate with his dignity and elevation, he stepped into the enclosed space to give a grand finale to the whole performance. Taking the child, a little boy five or six years of age, from its mother, despite her tears and entreaties, he signed the attendants to procure the required implements for his feat, directing their arrangements and position according to his mind.

"A large basket six or seven feet deep, made of straw, was shown to the spectators, that they might assure themselves of its being a basket without any addition or improvement; simply a basket of straw, very common in all parts of the world. Inverting it, after the diligent investigations of the entire party, he stood his little boy in the centre of the circle, and covered him with the basket like an extinguisher on a candle. The room allowed the little fellow an upright and apparently a comfortable position. We were permitted to see him under the basket, and to satisfy ourselves of his being there without any doubt. A naked sword having received an equally close examination, was placed in the man's hand, and the feat commenced. Assured of the child's concealment under the basket, of the keenness and validity of the sword, we waited in silent horror for his next proceeding. There was no table with its apartment, no trap in the basket, nothing but the hard stony floor, and no confederate near him. Taking his weapon in his hand, he waved it in the air, muttered a jargon, and commenced a series of rapid thrusts through the basket, making the point penetrate every time the opposite side, down into the basket, and all over it, until it could hardly support its own weight from mutilation. It was perforated like a sieve.

"A cry came from the interior, and a stream of blood began to trickle from under it along the stone floor on to the feet of the spectators. Cries of horror pierced the air, the mother ran shrieking to the basket to seize her horribly gashed and bleeding boy! She overturned it, no child was there, nothing but a pool of blood! Every body looked frightened and relieved, while the juggler coolly wiped the blood from the sword blade. Suddenly, bursting from the middle of the group of observers, the little fellow came running to his mother, unhurt, unharmed, and a pretty smile on his brown, and childish face. Taking hold of her hand, he seemed to ask the cause of her fears, and began fondling her in affectionate sympathy. It was a trick—a deception—a humbug. But how to explain it. I saw the child under the basket a moment before the thrusts; I saw the sword, its plain iron handle, no shelter for the keen, sharp blade; I stood on the same stone floor upon which rested the basket; I watched the whole carefully, while the sword was passed around—there was no refuge in the basket, there was no confederate, no mantle, no trap-door. The noise of the straw was distinctly heard at each thrust; the blood was there, and yet at the end the child came from the crowd and quite alive! I was within six feet, and could not understand it; perhaps you who were further away will be more successful. But isn't it a point or two in advance of Alexander, Blitz and those men!"

THE NEWS.

But little business of any importance was transacted in Congress on yesterday. Our telegraph column contains a summary of what was done.——The steamer Illinois arrived at New York on yesterday with California dates up to the 20th November. The news from the mines is highly interesting.——We have received some further news by the Canada which will be found under our telegraphic head. The news is of a decided warlike tendency. The combined fleet is said to have entered the Black Sea. The withdrawal of the Russian Ministers from London and Paris was daily expected.—The Russians attacked Kalefat on the 4th ult. but were repulsed with great loss of life on both sides. Several other skirmishes had taken place, in which the Russians were unsuccessful. The general tenor of the advices from Asia is unfavorable to the Turks. The vacancy in the English cabinet, caused by the resignation of Lord Palmerston, has not been filled.——Mr. Soule, our Minister, has fought a duel with the French Minister, and his son has fought with the Duke de Alba. No blood was shed.——The English markets are given in full in our report this morning.——The London News states that Kossuth left London for Constantinople on the 23d Dec.

IMPORTANT DECISION.

Judge Kane delivered an opinion in the U. S. District Court in Philadelphia, on the 30th ult., which will prove of some importance. The facts of the case, on which the decision is given are simply as follows:—A ship bound from Cork, Ireland, to Philadelphia, took on board a number of emigrant passengers, with the stipulation that on the arrival of the vessel at the latter port they should be forwarded to New York free of expense. When the vessel arrived the owners refused to comply with the stipulations, alleging that the captain had no authority to enter into such arrangement. The vessel was subsequently libelled by the British Consul, in behalf of the passengers, and the Judge held that the suit was well founded, on the ground that the master of the vessel was the authorized agent of the owners, and the vessel was consequently liable for any agreement the captain might enter into in regard to the vessel under his command.

THE GREAT SNOW STORM AT THE EAST.

The great snowstorm of Tuesday, Dec. 20th, is represented by the Eastern papers to have been one of almost unprecedented severity. The snow completely blocked up the passage of trains on the various railroads leading to Boston, and all of the mails were entirely intercepted. The snow in the streets of Boston drifted to the depth of five feet, and along some of the sidewalks was cut down, leaving a solid wall on either side, ranging from three to five feet in height. A train of three locomotives and one or two cars having started out on one of the Boston roads, encountered a snow drift that proved too much for it. The train was unable to proceed, and the snow soon drifted over it, the wood and water being exhausted and the fire being put out. The express train which left Boston at 8 o'clock had two engines, but only reached Framingham, 21 miles, at 1 P. M. There it got an additional engine, and proceeded a mile and a half further, at which point it stuck fast in a big snow drift, and could get neither forward or backward.—And here, with frozen up engines, the train, with over sixty passengers, nine of whom were ladies, were obliged to remain from 1 P. M. on Thursday till 9 A. M. on Friday—twenty full hours. The snow was so deep that it was impossible, without great effort, for passengers to wade back to Framingham. Several attempted it, and part of them were frost bitten on the journey.

At the hour mentioned on Friday morning the train was dug out by an extra locomotive and Irish force, and arrived at Springfield that afternoon, having been over 31 hours from Boston to Springfield. East of Worcester the snow is piled up in high drifts, in some places not less than ten feet deep. In many places in North Chelsea, the snow is full twenty feet for a distance of forty rods. The citizens of the town were obliged to turn out en masse to open the paths. The tide rose unusually high in the harbor, and overflowed a number of wharves, but caused no great amount of damage. A train of three locomotives left Providence, on the Stonington depot in the morning of that day, and got back in the evening, having accomplished during the day five miles. The snow was level with the top of the cars, in several places, for the distance of a quarter of a mile.

MARINE DISASTERS AND LOSS OF LIFE AND PROPERTY ON THE LAKES FOR 1853.

The Buffalo Express of Monday last contains a long and carefully prepared statement of the disasters upon the Lakes for the past year, of which the following is a recapitulation:

Total loss of property for 1853— $874,1[illegible]
Total loss of life 81

[illegible]

Of the Two hundred and Sixty-six disasters here detailed, nineteen occurred in April, thirty in May, seventeen in June, eleven in July, twenty eight in August, thirty in September, thirty-nine in September, thirty nine in October, eighty in November and twelve in December. Six Steamers, Two Propellers and thirty Sail Vessels have gone out of existence entirely. The number of accidents exceed those of last year by thirty seven, while the loss of property is less by $118,816. The great decrease in loss of life and property by collision and explosion shows a very gratifying result of the first year's operations of the new law, relating to vessels propelled by steam—and the improved system of lights. With but one exception) that of the Ocean Wave on Ontario) no lives have been lost on any of the regular passage steamers by any accident whatever.

The loss by collision in 1852 was $261,950—and loss of life 208, while that of 1853—is of life 81—and of property by collision only $55,828

General Wool would undoubtedly make a better President than Brigadier General Pierce has turned out to be, and [illegible] is but faint praise.

FROM A. D. 1800 TO A. D. 1854.

Without entering into the usual redoubtable and vaunting which characterize Fourth of July orations and Presidents' messages in these latter days, we think it may be profitable and interesting to attempt a brief but comprehensive review of our nation's progress, in numbers, wealth, and power, during the fifty-three years just past, the larger half of the century which is now upon its wane. The present is a peculiarly appropriate moment for such a retrospect, as the minds of intelligent and thinking men are now naturally turned toward the past, and are intent upon the reflection which a contrast of our condition fifty years ago with our present state must inevitably produce. In this review we shall be very materially aided by certain valuable tables of statistics, prepared with great care and accuracy for the columns of the N. Y. Herald, and of which we shall liberally avail ourself.

In the opening year of the present century, our republic numbered sixteen States; Vermont, Tennessee and Kentucky being added to the revolutionary precursors: New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, and Connecticut; New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, and Maryland; Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Georgia. The District of Columbia was composed of parts of the States of Virginia and Maryland. Our territories covered the remaining portion of our domain. On our north were the British possessions, and on our south, Louisiana, (then the property of France,) and the Floridas, then in the possession of the Spanish crown. On the east, our border was defined by the province of New Brunswick and by the Atlantic Ocean, and on the west by the windings of the Mississippi.

Ohio, now the third State of the confederacy, was at that epoch unknown. She entered the Union in 1802; Louisiana in 1811; Indiana, 1816; Mississippi, 1817; Illinois, 1818; Alabama, 1819; Maine and Missouri, 1820; Arkansas and Michigan, 1836; Florida, Iowa and Texas, 1845; Wisconsin, 1848; and California, in 1850.

At the commencement of this century, our territorial area was a million of square miles.—That year our government, during Mr. Jefferson's administration, purchased from France, for fifteen millions of dollars, (two and a half millions being retained to compensate for French spoliations,) that immense range of country now occupied by Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Arkansas, Louisiana, the Indian Territory, Nebraska, the Northwest Territory, Oregon, and Washington. It was a happy hour of our political existence. This purchase, at once adding to our possessions a million and a half of square miles, more than doubled our domain. A new and valuable acquisition was made in 1819, by our treaty with Spain, who ceded to us the Floridas, then valued at five millions of dollars, the estimated amount of spoliations committed by Spanish vessels upon our commerce. Two years after, our government took possession of this Palmetto region, with its almost 60,000 square miles. East and West Florida formed a territorial government in 1822, and became a State in 1845. Texas, which was in 1835 a Mexican State, revolted, and became independent in 1836, and was, nine years after, (1845,) annexed to our confederacy. We thus had a new territorial acquisition of 237,000 square miles. At the close of our late war with Mexico, we purchased from that Government, for twelve millions of dollars, more than half a million of square miles, comprising California and New Mexico. In 1849, California adopted its constitution, and the next year it became one of our States.

We have, at the present moment, an area of three and a quarter millions of square miles.—This is, we believe, not quite a quarter of a million square miles as great as the entire extent of the Continent of Europe. We have now thirty-one United States, six organized Territories, and three not yet organized. Our population in 1790, was 3,930,000; in 1800 it was 5,306,000; in 1810, it was 7,240,000; in 1820, it was 9,638,000; in 1830, it was 12,866,000; in 1840, it was 17,000,000; and in 1850 it amounted to 23,268,000 The ratio of increase has at no time been less than thirty two per cent., and from 1840 to 1850 it was more than thirty-six and a quarter per cent.

The statistics of our population give some very gratifying results. They very clearly show that the Celtic and Anglo Saxon races will not assimilate, and that one must conquer the other, while the numerical superiority of the latter clearly shows which of the two is to be the conqueror. They have each a manifestly different destiny, and have a mission to accomplish as widely diverse as their destiny. Of our whole population of twenty three and a quarter millions, the natives of Ireland are not quite 1,000,000; the English and British Americans are not quite 500,000; the Germans are not 600,000; the Scotch are but 70,000; the French, 54,000; and the Welsh, 30,000.

There are now only about half a million of Indians remaining in our country. In the year 1820 our Government made arrangements with the tribes residing in the United States to migrate to the Indian territory, and this arrangement has been crowned with wonderful success. The Cherokees and Choctaws, and some other tribes of red men, are greatly benefitting by their migration. They have organized governments of their own, and are enjoying all the blessings of Christian civilization.

During the last fifty years, notwithstanding our prevailing national policy has been such as to preserve peace towards other nations, we have been involved in several wars.

The unprovoked and repeated injuries done by Tripolitan cruisers to our merchant ships in the Mediterranean, led to a short war with Tripoli, which was declared in 1801, and terminated by a peace in 1805. The annual tribute that had long been exacted by the Barbary powers from all Christians navigating the Mediterranean sea, America was the first to refuse peremptorily. And her freedom on the high seas she boldly vindicated and maintained.

The refusal of Great Britain to repeal her famous Orders in Council, issued in 1806 and 1814, and to waive her alleged right of search and impressment, together with the commission of actual hostilities by a British frigate, occasioned the adoption of belligerent measures on our part; to the building of Mr. Jefferson's unfortunate gunboats; to his embargo which reduced our exports from a hundred and eight millions in 1807, to twenty-two and a half millions in 1808, and the imports from one hundred and thirty eight millions to fifty-seven millions of dollars; and then, too, his nonintercourse law in 1810. Two years after, the wanton attack made by the British sloop-of-war Little Belt upon the American frigate President, awakened general indignation, and induced Mr. Madison, in 1811, to recommend to Congress that the republic "should be placed in an attitude to maintain by force its wounded honor and essential interests." War was declared, and vigorously carried on by land and sea, with general advantage to our flag, until terminated by the treaty of peace signed in Ghent, in 1815.

The annexation of Texas, in 1845, and the consequent difficulties with Mexico, brought on the war with that power, the events and results of which are too recent and well known to need recapitulation.

MARINE DISASTERS.

The Boston papers give full details of the recent marine disasters, and the deplorable sufferings of mariners during the recent storm at the East. A large number of vessels have been either wrecked completely, or else dismasted and driven ashore. The most melancholy part of this sad intelligence is that a great number of lives are known to have been lost, and it is believed that some vessels have gone down with all on board. Probably the most heartrending disaster occurred to Capt. Stout, of the schooner Elizabeth. His vessel was wrecked off Yarmouth on Wednesday night. He succeeded in getting his wife ashore, but she died on the beach in his arms. His child perished while lashed to the schooner.

TENANT WANTED.—The Hopkins House, a large and well finished hotel, just completed at Morris, Ill., is advertised for rent. That village is improving rapidly, and offers an inducement for some good landlord.

HAS THE TIME COME?

Nothing so quickly or so powerfully excites the indignation of the great, the just, and the brave, as oppression exercised by the strong over the weak, more especially when the wrong can be inflicted with apparent impunity, and immunity from retaliation. This is at the present moment most particularly applicable to our countrymen in their views of the struggle now in progress between the Russians and the Turks. One universal sentiment of sympathy appears to possess our minds; and strong indeed must be the cause, heavy must be the oppression, that can enlist in the same feeling in our common anxiety, whole nations of professing christians, who are now rejoicing in every sound of victory that is trumpeted from Eastern Europe, of the Crescent over the Cross; and who feel every reverse as if it was their own, suffered by a nation heroic in the battle field, prudent, sober and patient under misfortunes, and, although fanatical in their religion, still tolerant to others, and honorable in all the transactions of life.—To explain this apparent anomaly, we must examine who it is that uplifts the Sacred Cross upon this occasion. We ask, is the Despot of all the Russias the man to lead such a call, supposing for one moment even that the Cross was in danger from the assaults of the Crescent? Is he not the advocate of spoliation, the inflicter of public and private wrongs? Bloated with pride and love of aggrandizement, would he not enslave Europe had he the power to place his iron grasp upon her nations? And he now attacks her on her weakest point, attempting to destroy that balance of power which has ensured a forty years general peace, and which has done more for the advancement of knowledge, science, and the encouragement of trade, in which advantages we have so largely participated, than centuries of previous disquiet could accomplish. His present aggressive acts are also shallow, unholy. Religion should never be mixed up with politics—the divine principles of charity must be outraged by making her the subject of bloody quarrels between nations. Universal supremacy was the creed of Peter surnamed the Great,—Nicholas, the present Autocrat of Russia, makes it his political testament. His pride and despotic tendencies were strengthened by the attempted revolution that ushered in his own advent to power and assumption of the imperial crown. Whilst feverishly active in his habits, he will leave naught untried to carry out the will of his predecessor, and make Constantinople the capital of his Empire. Will he succeed?—We may be able to speculate upon consequences and the chances of events may be calculated, but the conclusions we are most likely arrive at are guided by our sympathies and prejudices.—Such probably gave rise to the old tradition amongst the Xtian tribes of the East, prophesying that the Turks should be driven from Constantinople after a possession of four hundred years. Mahmoud the II. entered Bryantium May, 1450. On the 29th of May, 1853, the four hundred years expired, and the prophecy remained unfulfilled, it is to be seen, if the future confirm the denial which thus far the present has given to it. Divines call our attention to the prophecies of Daniel, Ezekiel and Isaiah, and clearly apply scriptural portions in their histories to the expulsion of the Turks from Europe by the Russians, and also the subquent downfall of the latter. We will not, however, now speculate upon chances, but state our impressions, that if England and France are faithful to their old ally, the Turks will, during our time, keep possession of their European dominions; and, although we by no means undervalue the opinions advanced, that the prophecies of Daniel, Ezekiel and Isaiah points with accuracy to Russia and Turkey, still we will now only advert to the heading of this article, and ask, "Is the time come." We think not.

FROM CUBA.

By the arrival of the steamship Black Warrior at New York, we have Havana dates up to the evening of the 27th ultimo.

The winter at Havana would be a gay one.—The holidays were being celebrated with all the enthusiasm of the Cubans.

The following is a decree in relation to the suppression of the slave trade, from the Captain-General to the Governors and Lieutenant-Governors of the Island:—

"As in the transfer of command from one authority to another, those engaged in the African slave trade will take advantage of the circumstances of doubt and perplexity which exists among the inferior authorities as to whether the new supreme authority will adopt measures more or less rigorous than others with regard to the suppression of this traffic, it is my duty to inform you, that I shall observe the laws in relation thereto, and shall exercise them upon any person who may engage in this prohibited trade. I shall continue them in force, and charge their observance upon you; as also all other instructions that my worthy predecessors have enjoined, the treaties of Spain, of the 23d of September, 1817; and the 28th of June 1835, relating to the slave traffic and the observance both in the spirit and the letter of the penal law of the 4th of March 1845. But as the total extinction of a traffic is difficult along these vast coasts, that is supported by the strength and vigor of interested parties, and as we have seen the inefficacy of the employees of our faithful and powerful ally, in its numerous cruisers, and of our own, and as recent returns have shown a great mortality among the slaves, it seems to us indispensible that some substitute should be introduced. I, therefore, authorise the introduction of free Indian laborers, Asiatics, and Spaniards, since it is the will of the goverment that, without exception, but at the same time, without any privilege, all the undertakings and contrasts that are under the guardianship of the government, should be favored."

THE ERIE RIOTS.—If the Cleveland Herald is to be credited, the ringleaders of the riots at Erie are choice specimens of humanity. That paper states that at a meeting held in Erie on Monday last, one Lowry relieved himself of a speech, in which all manner of denunciation was heaped upon the Directors of the Erie and North East Road; he indulged in the most savage threats of vengeance, and made appeals to the mob to resist the grinding oppression of rail road companies. This Lowry was followed by Mayor King, who seems to be a pleasant genius, and to express himself with peculiar delicacy. Hear him, as quoted by the aforesaid paper:

"He denounced Mr. Walker, of Erie, as a traitor and scoundrel. In speaking of the Directors and Managers of the Railroads, he said, "We will whip them—will whip them—will bury them so deep that electricity can't reach them—we will whip them—we'll whip the guts out of them."

Is Mayor King a pink?

THE REV. GARDNER DEAN, THE MISSING CLERGYMAN.—The Albany Evening Journal of Saturday gives the particulars of the spiriting away from New Bedford a few days since, of the Rev. Gardner Dean, from which it would appear that that gentleman is insane. The reverend gentleman says:

"He was walking down a street in New Bedford, in the evening, he was forcibly seized and forced into a wagon, his life menaced if he made any noise, and driven rapidly off. After riding about an hour, as he thinks, they compelled him, on pain of instant death, to pledge himself that he would renounce preaching and leave that part of the country. All this, he says, was spoken to him through something resembling a horn. After being liberated he considered his obligations so binding that he traveled through by-ways until he got far away from the scene of his trouble."

He left Albany in company with the Marshal on Friday evening, for New Bedford, but he says he is certain the opponents of the Maine Law will take his life.

A SLIGHT MISTAKE.—A man convicted of larceny, and sentenced to three months' imprisonment in Ozaukee county, was brought to this city this morning, in charge of a constable from that county, to be confined in our jail for that period of time, as Ozaukee county is not yet blessed with so useful an institution as a jail.

When the officer—a German, unacquainted with the English language, and accompanied by another German, of this city, in a like predicament—applied for entrance at the jail, being unable to walk in a straight line, in consequence of having imbibed too freely, he was mistaken for the prisoner by the turnkey, who forthwith, as was his wont, began to search him, to see if he had any concealed weapons about him. The officer resisted, and made an attempt to explain, but being drunk, and unable to speak much English, it was some time before the turnkey found out his mistake, and not then until he had given the poor trembling fellow a thorough going over. He ought to have been kept in jail until he became sober.—Mil. Free Dem.

RAILROAD MEETING AT DETROIT.

A large and enthusiastic meeting of the friends of a general Railroad Law in Michigan, was held at Detroit on Monday evening. The President of the meeting was Col. ANDREW T. MCREYNOLDS, who on taking the chair addressed the assembly, stating the object of the gathering to favor a called meeting of the State Legislature, and deeming the passage of a general Railroad Law as becoming the true position and interests of Michigan. We take the following extracts from a report of his speech, published among the proceedings of the meeting in the Detroit Tribune.

He pointed out the advantages that would accrue from the opening of new and uninhabited regions, in the value of land, the increased wealth and general prosperity that would follow; spoke of the great importance of a connexion with Chicago by the Southern tier of counties; of the necessity in, view of a wholesome competition and uninterrupted chain, that it should be in the interest and under the supervision of the Southern road, which could only be accomplished by means of a general law. That general laws instead of exclusive privileges, was the popular sentiment and avowed policy of our State, as evinced by the organic law—the Constitution. It was democratic, (he did not use the term in a party sense,) and no power however potent, can successfully interpose between the people and the triumph of this great principle. He instanced the powerful influence of railroad enterprise on our sister city, Chicago; described her wonderful progress under its auspices, as one of the most extraordinary developments of the age. He contrasted her present condition with what she was three years ago, as to population, commerce, manufactures and general prosperity. He closed this branch of his remarks by saying that astounding as was the past of Chicago, her future would be still more so. He invoked his fellow-citizens to emulate her noble example.

☞ It sometimes happens that a random shot does fearful execution in a quarter very different from that for which it was intended. The following broadside, fired from the Detroit Tribune, will hit somebody down here, if we are not mistaken.

POST-OFFICE CLERKS.—"We have got the very best kind of Clerks in our Post Office," remarked a citizen yesterday. "I notice that they are very careful and prompt to their duty, and quite gentlemanly besides." "They are the snuciest set in all creation!" growled another. "I never asked them for any thing yet, but that I had some harsh words with them." And no wonder there is such a difference in the opinions of these individuals; for the first speaker is one of the best natured men in the world, and when he asks for a letter or paper, he does it in such a kind, pleasing way, that whoever is at hand, is ready to take extra pains, if need be, to find whatever may be directed to this particular individual. But of course it is different with No. 2. He strides into the office in a bad humor, Treads on the toes of half a dozen—runs against the fruit seller, spilling half the contents of a basket of chestnuts on the floor—and, finally, when he arrives at the delivery, he speaks to the clerk as if he wished to snap his head off. The salutation (we wonder at it) meets with a prompt compliance, generally, on the part of the clerk, though, of course, he cannot act with the same good will, as if the gruff command were a friendly request. Sometimes there may be exceptions, but we are of the opinion that it is the easiest thing in the world to be on good terms with the clerks at the Post-office. The dignity of men is most commonly wounded more by themselves than by others.

A SHERIFF DREAMING TO SOME PURPOSE.—The Highland Eagle, Westchester county, N. Y. relates the following curious story:

A few days since Mr. Geo. F. Sherman of Cold Spring, while on his way home from his place of business, missed his pocket-book containing about $372 in bank bills, and a number of drafts, notes and valuable papers. Whether it was dropped from his pocket-book accidentally, or feloniously abstracted therefrom, Mr. S. was not able to determine. The fact was communicated to Daniel Dykeman, Deputy Sheriff of Putnam county. He dreamed that night that the money was in possession of Geo. McNary, a clerk in the hardware store of Messrs. H. & E. Pelton, that a part of it was fastened to the inner lining of his vest and a part in the crown of his cap, and that among the bills was a ten dollar note on the Putnam County Bank. Mr. Dykeman communicated this singular dream, to Mr. Sherman, and to gratify their suspicion excited by this dream, they kept an eye upon McNary, and on Saturday night last he was on his way to the cars with the intention of leaving the place he was arrested.

On searching him the money to the amount of $323 was found as indicated in Dykeman's dream, and the $20 note was especially recognized. McNary confessed that he found the pocket book in his employer's store while making a fire early on the morning of the 21st ult; that he slipped out the package of bills and flung the wallet, with whatever it contained, into the stove, and it was consumed by the flames. Having disbursed a part of the money, he promised the Sheriff that he would restore the balance if they would take him to a relation of his in Orange county. He was conveyed to the place pointed out, and was permitted to enter the house, unaccompanied by the officer, through which he escaped and was not perceived until over half a mile in the distance. Dykeman pursued him about six miles, when darkness coming on, the felon plunged into a swamp and was hid from view. In his valise was found a valuable patent spring trunk lock, and some other things taken from the hardware store of Messrs. H. & E. Pelton.

THE GREAT REPUBLIC.

Yesterday we conversed with several nautical gentlemen, who had seen this noble ship in ruins. Capt. Cressey, of the Flying Cloud, informed us that when the Great Republic caught fire aloft the masts were cut away, in the hopes of saving the hull; and would have been effectual, but for the increasing violence of the fire on shore, which was blown by the fury of the wind over the vessel, and enveloped her in flames. The outside shell of the bow, as far aft as the fore chains, together with the bowsprit and jibboom, are still left; but all abaft the foremast is burnt down to the third deck, and is under water.—It is not known whether two of her decks are left, nor will be until she is raised, and the charred wreck of the cargo and timbers is removed. The underwriters in New York consider her a total loss, and will probably sell the wreck, as it lies, for the benefit of "those concerned."

At the time of the disaster she was fitted with stores and provisions for nearly two years; it having been the intention of her owner to send her from Liverpool to Australia, and thence to the Chincha Islands and back to England. A few days before the fire, Mr. McKay refused $280,000 for her, as she then lay, ready for sea; but he had only insured on her $220,000, consequently his loss is, at least, $60,000. This is a heavy blow to a mechanic; but we are happy to learn that it will not effect any enterprise he has now on hand. Mr. McKay is not only a great shipbuilder, but a good business man—In all his undertakings he carefully estimates the cost, and trusts but little to luck. This is the only disaster that has befallen him, and we are happy to state he is far from desponding over it. Yesterday he returned from New York, and shook his friends as cheerfully by the hand as ever. He consoles himself by the reflection that the loss of his splendid ship was beyond his control, and that all had been done that man could do to save her. When her keel was laid, some of his friend remarked that she was to large and that she would bankrupt him before she was finished; yet he persevered, remarking, by way of reply, "Let friends and foes talk, I'll work." And nobly did he work. He not only finished the splendid ship, but had her loaded ready for sea, without borrowing a dollar from any one, upon bottomry. The ship was clear of all encumbrances when she was destroyed. When we consider her vast size, the matchless beauty of her model, her amazing strength, and the completeness of her outfits, we cannot find terms to express our admiration of the master mind who made her what she was—"the pride and wonder" of all who saw her. Every paper that we open, sympathises with Mr. McKay for his loss; and so wide spread is this feeling, that the destruction of his beautiful ship is regarded as a national calamity.

But McKay's motto is "onward." Today he will be found in his ship-yard, making ready to launch one of the most beautiful clippers he has ever built—a ship of 2500 tons, named the Lightning. This vessel is built for the firm of Jas. Baines & Co. of Liverpool, and is the first ever built in the United States for an English house. Mr. McKay has done his best to make her an honor to the place where she was built, and we believe she will be very swift. Capt. Jas. N. Forbes, formerly of the famous ship Marco Polo, will command her. Mr. McKay has now in frame, for the same firm, another clipper of 2500 tons, with three decks; and we understand he contemplates building in the spring still another ship of the same size. He is determined not to be idle. Such a man is a public benefactor; and it is pleasing to see how well his labors have been appreciated by his fellow citizens.—Boston Atlas, Dec. 31.

PERSIA AND ENGLAND.

In announcing the declaration of war by the Shah of Persia against the Turkish Sultan, we copied from The London Times a statement that Persia has fallen entirely under "Russian control;" but since our London contemporary fails to explain how that country has become estranged from the influence of Great Britain we will supply the deficiency. It includes some singular historical facts.

In 1811, England bound herself, by the treaty of Teheran, negotiated with Persia by Sir Harford Jones Brydges, to maintain Persia on her then footing of independence, against Russia and and all other powers Persia on her side, stipulated that she would not enter into any relations with European nations, or with any power whatever, to detriment or prejudice of the British Indian Empire. The stipulations of that treaty were faithfully kept by Persia. England violated them at first 1826, when she allowed Russia to extend her territory to the frontier of the Araxes. And Lord Palmerston, from 1830 to 1841, did all in his power to supplant the British influence in the Persian councils by Russian influence. as we proceed to show.

At the time when the noble lord come into office, the Russians were so detested in Persia that they were scarcely able to find a footing for their Consuls or agents in any part of the kingdom. In Hamadan, for instance, permission to reside was secured to them only upon the application and remonstrances of the British Envoy. So complete was the British ascendancy in Persia at that time, so complete the distrust and suspicion of Russian designs. In 1831 the menaces of Lord Palmerston prevented Persia from succouring the insurrection in Poland, disgusted the mind of Abbas Mirza, the Crown Prince, whose march to the Russian frontier he had intercepted, and thus disposed him and his home to look less unfavorably towards their former enemy, Russia than towards Great Britain, their unfaithfully ally. On the death of the Crown Prince, Russia with the aid of Palmerston, set aside the next heir to the crown of Persia, who according to the usage of the country, was the eldest surviving son of the Shah, and replaced him by the son of Abbas Mirza, the Governor of Azerbijan, a province bordering on the Russian territory, this Prince having already agreed to exchange the English for the Russian alliance.—This transaction deeply compromised the independence of Persia, and had the effect of giving to the Czar a direct voice in the alteration and new arrangement of the succession of the Persian monarchy. Aided by British forces, the Russ nominee was enabled to vanquish and put to death his competitor, the lawful heir, and place himself on the throne of Persia.

This was in the year 1834; and subsequently the noble Lord made it his system to leave the British Envoys at Teheran entirely without instructions; or so to instruct them as to leave them entirely unprovided to meet any forseen or unforeseen emergency. They had, moreover, one standing direction given them, which was this: that they were in all cases to act in conjunction with the Russian Envoy. Dispatch after dispatch—some times as many as twenty consecutive dispatches—were received in Downing street from the British Envoys in Persia, beseeching information and advise, and the necessary powers to proceed. But the answer of Lord Palmerston—when it came—was, invariably: "I approve of what you have done, and I "shall wait for further information from you before I send you further instructions." In the meantime they are directed by him to continue to act upon the instructions already received. But these were that they must act in conjunction with the Russian Legation—that is, concur in the measures which Russia might think fit to take. Thus it appeared to Persia that Russia alone was active, that England did nothing except to concur with Russia, and that accordingly it behoved Persia to secure a favorable position with Russia alone. In Central Asia it is therefore said to this day that Russia and England are united on the terms of sovereignty and vassalage; the Czar of Russia being said to be the suzerain and the Queen of Great Britain to be the vassal. The Russian Envoy, Count Simonich, actually advised and headed an expedition of the Persian army against Herat, with the avowed object of making that the first step toward the conquest of Candahar, of Cabul, and finally of Delhi itself. The first intimation to Lord Palmerston of the design to attack Herat was conveyed in a dispatch from Mr. Ellis, in November, 1835. And notwithstanding the earnest and frequent entreaties of Mr. Ellis and Sir John McNeill for instructions to lodge with the Czar a protest against the expedition, the date of the noble Lord's first instructions is July 27, 1838, when the Herat expedition had already been brought to an ignominious end. This proves conclusively the co-operation of the late British Minister in the work of Russian aggrandizement.

JEALOUSY AND BLOOD.—St. Charles street was thrown into a high state of excitement at about 10 o'clock this morning. A woman, with a stern and determined tread, was seen rapidly passing the St. Charles Theater, her right hand concealed by the folds of a heavy shawl. When she got in front of Murphy's she met a man, and seizing him by the shoulder, she muttered something about a picture and revenge, and quick as thought she plunged a knife three times in his breast. The man, bleeding profusely, ran up Poydras st., and the heavens, which had before been bright and clear, suddenly darkened. The rain fell in torrents It seemed as if Nature was angered at the deed which had been done, or, perhaps, at the still darker deed which had provoked it. The woman was at once arrested, when she gave her name as Susan Conger. Her story is, that the man she stabbed is her husband; that some years ago they removed from Philadelphia to this city; that her husband proved unfaithful to his marriage vows, in consequence of which she left him and returned to her friends; that last summer he returned to Philadelphia, and, by promises of better conduct in future, induced her to return with him again to this city; that of late he manifested his old inclination to run after strange women, and that on Thursday he brought the daguerreotype of one of his female favorites to their boarding house, No. 51 Poydras st. She further stated that he had been with her on Thursday night, and that, fired by jealousy, she had determined to kill him. To this end she gave $1 50 for a dagger, and walked the streets till she found him, when she perpetrated the deed for which she had been arrested. When taken to the guardhouse she appeared to be very much excited, declaring that her husband had wronged her; that she had taken a wronged woman's revenge; and that, if the laws of savage man required it, she would swing gloriously on the gallows. After being locked up, however, the "melting mood" came over her, and in her tears she repented her rash act, kept asking for her husband, and requested permission to wash her hands, that she might rub off the red and "damned spot" which her husband's blood had left thereon.—New Orleans Paper.

FEMALE SHOEMAKERS.—It is stated that in Washington some of the most respectable and independent women, married and single, engage in the shoemaking business as an agreeable pastime as well as from motives of economy. "The gaiters which cost us $3 at the stores," writes a female, "cost us one day's labor and 60 cents for the best material bought at retail. One of us has made five pair of ladies' gaiters in a week. Many of us makes shoes for ourselves and children, without neglecting other household duties. On Capitol Hill alone there are thirty ladies thus employed, and about two hundred in the city. We find it very easy to make two pair of children's shoes in a day, and they cost us here, $1,25 a pair."

DOING THE DOOR-KEEPER.—A door keeper at one of the Southern Theatres was somewhat surprised, a few weeks ago, that an old gentleman whom he had known as rather a "lean one," has grown suddenly so fat, that it was with difficulty he passed through the entrance to the boxes, but if he was surprised at his sudden growth, what was his astonishment when at the end of the act, he saw him emerging, with hand extended, for a check, looking as lean and bony as ever. He could not see through the mystery, even when he saw him finally leave the theatre with a little withered specimen of humanity on his arm, known as his wife; but he was determined to watch his motions, should he present his fatness again.

It was but a few nights after, that he had an opportunity. The lean fat man came to the box office, purchased a single ticket, gave it to the door-keeper, wedged himself through the entrance, and struck a bee-line for a corner of the lobby, where, on unbuttoning an overcoat that was doubtless made for a man of twice his size, he dropped, on her feet, the little woman afore mentioned. They were let off immediately—out of the theatre.—Grand's Typo.

THE BALANCE OF TRADE.—The New York Courier, in opposition to the view taken by the Secretary of the Treasury, that the balance of trade for the last year had been in favor of this country, undertakes to demonstrate that the actual balance was against this country, by no less a sum than $66,[illegible],000.

The Courier's statement is, Dr.: To imports entered at a value of $267,000,000; to which add 10 per cent. for under valuations, and for profits on foreign account, $26,700,000; and interest on $[illegible],000,000 of American securities held abroad at an average of 6½ per cent., $20,000,000. with exchange thereon at 10 per cent., $2,000,000; total $314,[illegible],000. Cr.: By exports, $230,480,000; profits, freights, &c., $20,000,000. Total $250,480,000, giving a balance as above stated.

☞ The Penny Dailies of Albany, embracing the Knickerbocker, the Express, and the Transcript,—have been raising the price of their papers. They now charge two cents for single copies, and ten cents a week. The rise in the cost of paper and other printing materials, is the cause of their change. We fear that the day of penny papers has gone by. They can't be made to pay.—Syracuse Daily Journal.

AMERICANISM IN ITS PURITY AND INTEGRITY.

Padre Gavazzi last evening delivered an able and eloquent address upon the above subject, at the Broadway Tabernacle, to a very numerous audience.

On making his appearance on the platform, he was greeted with applause which lasted several minutes. My dear brethren, said he, some people may, perhaps, accuse me of impertinence and audacity, in addressing you to-night, foreigner as I am, upon the duties of Americans; but in my country we have a proverb that "four eyes see better than two," and therefore I do not consider it to be improper on my part to address you upon the topic which I have designed for consideration this evening. There are some, no doubt, who entertain objections to religious discussions, but when I find that we have Hugheses and Robinsons, the Richelieus of Catholicism, and many others who preach against Protestantism, I suppose, also, that I am free to preach against the Papal system, [cheers,] and if many in the country attack the rights of Americanism, I have a perfect right to defend the rights of Americanism. I therefore claim the freedom of speech for all, for surely if our enemies have a right to speak, I have a right to do so likewise. This is our business and our duty, and therefore, in speaking this evening of Americanism, in its purity and integrity, I distinguish under the head of Americanism two great topics—Protestantism, and Republicanism. Both of these constitute your Americanism. You are Americans, not only because you are Protestants, but because you are Republicans. You cannot separate Protestantism and Republicanism, for both together—Protestantism and Republicanism—are the substance and the glory of your Americanism. If Protestantism be pure, Americanism will also be pure in your dear country To maintain pure Protestantism we do not need Papish Bulls, Canons of Councils or Pastorals, but we need the Bible alone. You may maintain the purity of Protestantism should you borrow all the theological books in the world if you will only hold fast to your Bible. The great effort which the Papists are now making, and which, if successful, will destroy Republican America, is to exclude the Bible from your schools, and they say it is a sectarian book. Is it a sectarian book? The Bible is a Protestant book—it is the Word of God, and therfore, God is a Protestant. They say it is a sectarian book, and as it is the Word of God, God himself must be a sectarian. We feel, my dear brethren, that we are glad to be in such good society when we, as sectarians, are reading our Bible. If you regard the Bible not in a religious aspect, but only as a great historical book, no class—not even the Mohammedans—can speak prejudicially of it.—Nobody will exclude the Bible as a great history, and as a great book of morality; and therefore the Bible is not a sectarian book. Again, if you take the Bible as the foundation of all Christianity, no Christian can refuse it as a sectarian book. You have, among Protestants, several denominations, differing in minor exteriors and discipline, but not in principle; but notwithstanding all this, they all agree in recognizing the Bible as a divinely-inspired book, and therefore it cannot be a sectarian book; because, if it were, the Episcopalian would object to it, the Presbyterian would object to it, and the Methodist would do the like. What consequence must I then draw if the Roman Catholics reject the Bible? I can arrive at but one conclusion, and that, my dear brethren, is, that the Roman Catholics are not Christians, but only Roman Catholics. [Loud applause.] If therefore you will be Christians and moral men according to the commands of God, you must retain your Bible, but if you agree with the Roman Catholics, you must either serve God or Mammon.—You must either please God or the Papists. To please both is impossible, my dear brethren, when the Roman Catholic excludes the Bible. The Word of God alone can maintain the purity of Protestantism in your beloved country. [Cheers.] There is no pure Christianity where there is no Bible. I, as a man, am opposed to a particular religious teaching in your State Schools, because if you introduce it you cannot avoid sectarianism All should be allowed to read the Word of God without comment or without any verbal instruction, because Saint Paul says that all the inspired word is useful for our correction, and to make perfect the man of God in all teaching. Therefore, my dear brethren, let the Bible be read in your Public Schools without comment or verbal instruction, for it alone is the best religious instruction God has ever given to man—it is the foundation of all Christianity—it is the sole defence for morality and Protestantism, and it alone spreads among the hearts of the young the pure and high morality emanating from Heaven and from God. Therefore I say that the purity of Americanism in America depends altogether upon the preservation of the Bible in your State Schools.

Let us avoid all that can disgust the Christian eye and the Christian heart. I exclaim again, and again, and again, let the crosses now displayed on many Protestant Churches be removed. Behold the enemy of the cross—not the cross of Jesus Christ—but behold the enemy of the cross of the Puseyites. I, I am the man.—[Loud applause.] I am the bitter and implacable enemy of the Puseyite cross, [Cheers.] The newspapers say, here is this revolutionary patriot who has changed his cross for a sword—the cross which he has long disgraced.—[Groans.] This was the Church Journal. My cross was not a Puseyite cross, but only the Italian cockade; and I have the proud honor before God and before my countrymen, to tell you that I never disgraced my Italian cockade. [Loud applause.] I thank God that I never disgraced my Italian cross, my Italians cockade, and when I discard it, it will be when in my dear Italy there no longer remain Pope and priests, and Romish mummeries.

The cross which I have disgraced, and which I will do to the day of my death, is the Papal and Puseyite cross. [Cheers.] I, like Martin Luther, will fight to the death of the cross of pagan Popery, for the cross that I alone respect is that on which Jesus was crucified. I appeal to you as Protestants, what do you read in the word of God, and I wait for an answer from the Church Journal? What do you read in the second commandment of the Decalogue? Does that commandment permit you to have a cross on your churches? If it does, go and fill your Protestant churches with crosses. No it does not, and if you regard the commandment, you must, wherever you find a cross, conclude that it is anti-scriptual. In the early Christian ages we had no trace of a cross, but the Council of Nice permitted images as remembrances, which afterwards became objects of worship. First came a cross, then came the Virgin Mary, then Saint Joseph, and all such nonsenses. It is therefore no cross on us. We must regard the cross only as a remembrance of Jesus Christ—we must have it in our hearts and not in the facades of our churches. When, my dear brethren, you see these crosses upon the facades of Protestant churches, you may well turn away in disgust and exclaim, "Faugh what a smell of Romanism in this church!" I know that some ladies wear crosses. I must say that it is a very bad fashion, but as ladies are a little capricious in their fashions—although I am not the man my dear brethren, to interfere with woman's right—I must say that I am utterly against ladies' indulging in such ornaments in your Americas. [Laughter and applause.] It is a bad—a very bad fashion. The best reason I can give why the cross is so much worn here, is that it saves trouble to the goldsmith. Why, it is so easy to make a cross, that when our dearly beloved brethren come here from the Emerald Isle, and cannot sign their names after their Roman Catholic education—they represent their signatures by a cross [Loud cheers and laughter.] It is very easy for a goldsmith to make a cross, but it is much more difficult to construct an American eagle, and the goldsmith says to the lady who is about to become a purchaser, "Oh, see how beautiful and brilliant this cross is, but how dull and stupid the eagle is," and then the ladies come like little fishes to the bait, and buy the cross. Insist upon your eagle, my dear brother. A very fine lady in Saratoga, a writer in one of your papers, said to a goldsmith, "Make me an eagle with diamond eyes, with the Scriptures in its mouth, and the globe in its talons;" meaning thereby to show that, by means of the Bible, America would free the world.—Many Boston ladies have changed their crosses for an American eagle. It is the duty of the brothers, and husbands, and sweethearts of ladies, to present them with eagles, instead of the cross. [Applause.]

Do not consider that the Gothic architecture of your churches and chapels in New York is a matter worthy of disregard. Gothic architecture for Protestant Churches! Humph. This is like the goldsmith with the crosses. Gothic architecture is adopted for the purpose of covering poverty of mind and artistic invention.—Why? Because, in order to imitate nature, which is the Greek style, it is necessary to have a mind brought out by study; but in regard to Gothic architecture, it is the most easy thing in the world. Again, the Gothic architecture belongs to a barbarous age; and in these countries where it is most adopted, there is the most abject debasement, and in every country where it is adopted the fine arts are on the decline. We think so in Italy. Your Protestant Churches in this city are generally built with three naves, and an altar at the end which resembles more a beautiful Catholic Church instead of a Protestant Chapel. The Gothic style of architecture in a Protestant Church is the invention of the devil. (Cheers) Roman Catholics have Gothic edifices, because their worship consists in hearing mass and it is not much consequence whether they hear it or not, but the Protestant worship, consisting, as it does, in hearing the Word of God, it is necessary that the building should be so constructed that sound should be easily conveyed. What is the consequence of the present system? I can answer practically. I have been, many and many a Sunday, in different Protestant Gothic Churches, constructed after the manner of the Romanists, and I could hear but little of what fell from the lips of the preacher. What is the conclusion, my dear brethren? It is, may God grant your preachers very strong voices, because if your preachers have gentle voices the people will go from your Gothic churches, cold, being made unable to hear the preaching of your ministers.

The Padre next referred to the orchestra.—The Roman Catholics, and frequently the Protestants, went to church simply to listen to the beautiful music of the choir and the voluptuous singing of Madame this or Miss that, and on many occasions in Protestant Churches the Padre had observed members of the congregation at the time the choir were performing, turn their backs to the minister in order to listen with greater attention to the melody flowing from the gallery.

This was the fashion in this country, but the Padre was overjoyed when he remembered the different scenes presented in the English, Scotch and Swiss churches. There the entire congregation, consisting often of two thousand persons, joined in the hymn of praise to the God whom they come to worship. It was his (Gavazzi's) opinion, that you should not, as at Castle Garden or any other places of amusement, pay voices for your diversion, but that you praise God with the organs that he had given you for that purpose.

He next referred to the lamentable want of places of worship in this city for the poorer class and conceived it to be the duty of those who contributed to build aristocratic churches, filled with luxurious pews, presided over by fashion clergymen, should endeavor, by every means in their power, to ameliorate the unfortunate condition of their poorer brothers, who from their poverty were precluded from receiving that consolation which religion could alone afford.—The Padre was in favor of the missionary system when the religious wants of the country had been satisfied, but until then it was unjust to attempt to carry out such schemes On the last point of his lecture he made but a few remarks, intimating that as he, in all probability, would have occasion to address his countrymen at Metropolitan Hall on Thursday next, he would take that opportunity of more fully entering into the subject.

☞ Mrs. Partington and Ike attended the Theatre a few evenings since, to see the play, "Just As You like it." The old lady was so struck with the beautiful "Seven Ages," that she committed it to memory, and was overheard the next day reciting the passage to herself in the following manner:

All the world's a stage,
And all the men and women merely passengers:
They have their axes, and their entry ways,
And each man beats time and plays his part—
All the axes having seven edges. At first the infant,
Mewing, peeking, &c., in the nurse's arms;
And then the whining school boy, with his satchel
And shiney morning face, creeping like a nail
Un wittingly to school—and then the lover
Sighing like a foundry, with a woeful bandage
Made to his mistress's eyebrow. Then a soldier,
Full of strange oaths and bearded like a goat,
Zealous in honor, sudden and quick in turmoil,
Seeking the bubble refrustation—
Even in the cannon's mouth; and then the Justice of the Peace,
In fair round belly, with good apron lin'd,
With eyes severe, and beard of awful cut,
Full of old handsaws and modern instances,
And so he plays his part. The sixth age shimmies
Into the lean and slipper'd pair of pantaloons,
With spectacles on nose and pouch on side,
His young stockings well saved, a world too wide
For his shrunk shank—and his big manly voice
Turning again towards childish treble, clarionett
And whistles in his sound. Last scene of all
That ends this strange eventful history
Is second childishness and mere vacuum,
Sans teeth, sans eyes, sans taste, Sand's Sarsaparilla.

THE EXTRA SESSION.

We understand from reliable authority that the Governor has decided to call an extra session of the State Legislature, to meet upon the 10th of February.

☞ We insert no communications from anonymous writers. If "Post" or any one else, desires an article published, we must know their right name. Correspondents will please bear this in mind, and also understand that all names are strictly confidential.

JENNY LIND BEFORE THE PUBLIC AGAIN.—The London Saturday Gazette, of the 9th of December, says:

Madame Jenny Goldschmidth, nee Lind, has made her first appearance in public, since her marriage and return from America, at Dresden For days previously the music shop from which tickets were issued had been besieged by the public of Dresden, and many hundreds were turned away disappointed. Her voice is as fine as it ever was; and in the songs with which she finished her evening's performance one felt as much as ever her superiority to all the singers of the present day, evinced equally in the supernatural charm of her simple style, as in the most brilliant and difficult fioriture of the modern Italian school.

☞ Mr. Couldock, the Tragedian, of whom our citizens doubtless retain such pleasant recollections, is playing a very brilliant engagement at the Metropolitan Theatre, at Hamilton, C. W. The Spectator of that city thus speaks of him:

METROPOLITAN THEATRE.—A brief but successful season, at this popular place of amusement, was closed on Saturday evening. On the previous evening Mr. Couldock took his benefit in Shakespeare's great tragedy of Macbeth. The House was crowded to its utmost capacity, and never did we witness an audience so apparently convinced of the sterling qualities of an actor than that which witnessed Mr. Couldock's impersonation of the Thane of Cawdor. Every action, every look, proved that his soul was wrapped up in his great master piece of England's greatest dramatist. It was a noble conception, and exhibited to the greatest advantage.

MICHIGAN RAILROAD CONVENTION.

A State Railroad Convention was held in Jackson, Michigan, on Wednesday. Among the resolutions adopted was one proposing to increase the capital of the Port Huron and Michigan Railroad to eight millions of dollars, and another recommended the calling of an extra session of the Legislature, for the purpose of taking into consideration the importance of incorporating companies to locate railroads in whatsoever part of the State they may desire to invest their capital.

SERIOUS CASE OF STABBING—RESULT OF SNOWBALLING.—Shortly after 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, a gang of young rowdies were engaged in snowballing each other at the corner of Elizabeth and Houston sts., when one of the balls struck a man in the face who was passing. He instantly became enraged, rushed across the street, and plunged a dirk in the right breast of Peter McKeon, one of the party. He then fled down Elizabeth st. and escaped. The injured youth was conveyed to his boarding house, No. 223 Elizabeth st., but his friends being unable to procure him the attendance of a physician, Lieut. O'Brien, of the Fourteenth Ward, procured a carriage, and had him taken to the New York Hospital. His injuries it is feared will prove fatal, as the internal hemorrhage was excessive. The assailant is supposed to be a Spaniard, and though the police have but an imperfect description of him, they will endeavor to arrest him.—N. Y. Tribune, 2d.

☞ The Sandusky Register says that one of the produce dealers of that city, during the past season, has purchased over 800,000 bushels of wheat, amounting to the handsome sum of $1,000,000. Considerable of a showing for one dealer.

THE RIVER.—We have never seen the Mississippi as low at this point as it is at the present time. Since the ice commenced running, it has fallen about three feet. With good "stoga boots," you can manage across the bay with dry feet. At least we judge so, from the appearance of things.—Quincy Whig.

DR. McLANE'S CELEBRATED LIVER PILLS
Are fast superseding all other remedies for liver complaint, sick headache, dyspepsia, &c. Below we give the certificate of a lady residing in our own city. In such certificates the public must have confidence.
New York, August 23, 1852.
I do hereby certify that I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint for a long, and never found permanent relief until I used Dr. McLane's Liver Pills. By their use I have been completely cured of that dreadful disease, and now take pleasure in recommending them to all who are troubled with liver complaint, sick headache, or dyspepsia.
MARY HILL, Fifth Avenue.
P. S. Dr. McLane's Celebrated Liver Pills, also Dr. McLane's Celebrated Vermifuge, can now be had at all the respectable Drug Stores in this city.
☞ Purchasers will please be careful to ask for, and take none but Dr. McLane's Vermifuge and Liver Pills.—All others, in comparison, are worthless. ja6

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.
A most effectual remedy for Erysipelas.—Mr. James Graves, of No. 1, Brownlow Cottage, Stonehouse, Plymouth, was severely afflicted for more than three years with that deceitful disease, Erysipelas. His sufferings were incredible, and although he received some of the best medical advice, he obtained little or no relief. Almost in despair, he determined on giving Holloway's Ointment and Pills a trial; and, by a little perseverance with them, he was completely restored to health, and strongly recommends these medicines to others similarly afflicted. Mr. G. Williams, of 19 Edgcumbe street, Plymouth, can verify this case. ja6

COMMERCIAL

CHICAGO MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE, Wednesday, January 5.—[illegible] P. M.

There was considerable activity in the Wheat market to-day, occasioned by millers and warehouse men being disposed to buy freely. The mills are nearly out of Wheat, and with the numerous buyers and light receipts, the trade is active. There is nothing more special to notice, and we quote sales for the day as follows:

FLOUR.—Best qualities of City Mills [illegible]—Fresh No. 1 is held at $5.75. Retail prices, 25 cents advance.

WHEAT.—About [illegible] bu fair spring sold from depots in lots to mills, warehouses, and Michigan buyers—[illegible] bu prime spring from depot to mill at $1,[illegible]—[illegible] bu mixed and winter, at $1,[illegible], from depot—[illegible] bu good spring to arrive, at [illegible].

A CHANCE FOR A FORTUNE.
HOTEL. The large and new HOTEL just completed in Morris, Grundy County, is now ready for occupancy, and will be rented on reasonable terms. The city of Morris, it is well known, is situated in one of the richest and most fertile portions of the State, is the centre of an increasing business country, and accessible to all parts of the State by Rail Roads and the Illinois and Michigan Canal, which passes directly through it. The Rock Island Railroad now connects the city within a few hours of Chicago, and receives at Morris a large share of its custom and business. The Hopkins House has received the patronage of travelers on account of its splendid location, and is one of the largest and most conveniently arranged Houses in the State outside of Chicago. No inland city in the West has shown greater prosperity or offers better inducements for investment than Morris.
Application for renting the Hopkins House may be made by letter, or by personal application to

LOCAL MATTERS.

CITY MORTALITY.

The report of the City Sexton exhibits the following bill of mortality for the month of December, 1853:

South Division	52
North "	40
West "	29
	121

Of these total, 62 were children under ten years of age.

The mortality of the city for the month of September, 1853, was 191; and for October, 114; and for November, 96.

The deaths for December for a series of years have been as follows:

1847,	'48	'49,	'50,	'51,	'52,	'53.
30	42	42	49	64	75	121

The causes of the deaths during December are thus enumerated:

Croup,	1	Inflamation of lungs,	2
Whooping Cough,	1	Disease of Heart,	1
Unknown,	16	Small Pox,	2
Dysentery,	1	Suicide,	1
Inflamation,	1	Sore Throat,	1
Consumption,	24	Old Age,	2
Diarrhea,	5	Cold,	4
Inflamation of brain,	1	General Debility,	1

Billious Fever,	3	Tabes Mesenteria,	1
Lung Fever,	1	Intermittent Fever,	1
Dropsy,	2	Pleurisy,	1
Never Well,	10
Erysipelas,	1	Total,	121
Killed on Railroad,	1

Below, we give a table of the mortality of the city for several years with a comparative table of its population, by which it will be seen the public health the past season, was much better than in any year preceding.

The total number of deaths each year have been as follows:

	Deaths.	Pop. of City.
1847,	520	16,859
1848,	560	19,724
1849,	1,519	23,047
1850,	1,335	28,620
1851,	836
1852,	1,649	38,733
1853,	2,206	60,669

We give the diseases which appear to most prevail in our city, as follows:

Consumption for 1853,	198
Teething,	111
Scarlet Fever,	34
Diarrhoea,	30
Dysentery,	59
Typoid Fever,	27
Unknow disease,	181

We note the deaths by accident or design, thus:

Drowned,	25
Killed,	20
Suicide,	5
Poisoned,	1
Found dead,	1
Total,	53

The mortality for each of the months of the past year was as follows:

January,	58	July,	111
February,	68	August,	152
March,	81	September,	191
April,	59	October,	114
May,	73	November,	96
June,	82	December,	121

GRAND MILITARY AND CIVIC BALL.—The Garden City Guards will give their first annual ball at North Market Hall on Monday evening next. The company, we understand, are making extensive preparations for the occasion, and it is their design to make it the Ball of the season. The corps have gained high credit for their efficiency in drill, and their reputation as an independent military company is of the highest character. With the Tremont Orchestra to furnish music, and Mr. Putnam as caller, the occasion promises to be a brilliant one.

MAINE LAW MASS CONVENTION FOR COOK COUNTY.

We, the undersigned, citizens of Cook county, believing the traffic in intoxicating drinks the greatest evil of the times; and believing the Maine Liquor Law the only effectual remedy within our reach:—

Do hereby issue this call for a COUNTY MAINE LAW MASS CONVENTION, to be holden at South Market Hall, in the city of Chicago, on Thursday, the 19th day of January, 1854, at ten o'clock A.M. for the purpose of organizing a County Maine Law Alliance, auxiliary to the State Maine Law Alliance, instituted by the State Convention on the 7th and 8th of December last.

THE SOCIETY OF THE OLD DOMINION.—This Society met on Wednesday evening, and elected the following members Managers for the ensuing year:

Wm. S. McCormick,	Thos. B. Bryan,
Col. E. D. Taylor,	J. L. Scripps,
J. W. Waughop.

These Managers, with the President of the Society, constitute a Board for the transaction of all ordinary business.

☞ The Second Presbyterian Church of this city have contributed during the past year the sum of $10,205 30, for various religious and charitable purposes.

☞ We inadvertantly omitted in our Theatrical notice of yesterday, a just word of commendation for Mr. Myers' Legree. The character is an unthankful one, and Mr. M. deserves praise for the careful and painstaking manner, with which he presents the author's conception.

AT TREMONT HALL.—The "Original Campbell Minstrels," led by Murphy, Peel and West, will appear at Tremont Hall this and to-morrow evenings. The St. Louis papers speak of their entertainments and reception in that city in high terms.

☞ Mellen & Co. expect to receive their regular package of Harper's Magazine on the 15th inst.

RECORDER'S COURT.

R. S. WILSON, Recorder; P. A. HOGUE, Clerk.

In the case of Johanna Moynahan, mentioned yesterday morning, the Jury returned a verdict of $18 against her for keeping a disorderly house.

Ann Moynahan, mother of Johanna, was tried yesterday on a similar charge. This was also an appeal from the Police Court. The Jury was out three or four hours, but failed to agree on a verdict.

John S. Reed vs. Lawrence Doyle—trespass. This suit was brought to recover damages against the defendant for detaining vessels belonging to the plaintiff, while the former was acting in the capacity of Harbor Master. Trial now progressing.

POLICE COURT.

Before Judge RUCKER—Business has been decidedly dull since the opening of the New Year—whether it is on account of less liquor being sold, or that the nights are to dark for the Watchmen to discern the offenders, we are unable to determine. There were but two cases on the docket yesterday morning, and neither enriched the City Treasury.

Charles McGovern, a poor, stupid specimen of mortality was taken to the Watch House the previous evening by a lawyer, on a complaint of being drunk in the streets. The only evidence of the fact was that Charles had a "broken head;" and the lawyer explained that by stating that he fell against the sidewalk. The Court took pity on Charles, and discharged him.

John McFarland, a negro boy, was arrested for being concerned with several white boys in stealing money from a man who hired them to "carry wood." John turned state's evidence, and told the names of his accomplices, and an officer started in company with him to look after the light colored rogues.

CHICAGO HOMEOPATH.—This is the title of a very neat little magazine which is to advocate the medical system of the celebrated Hahnemann. It is conducted by Drs. D. S. Smith, S. W. Graves, and R. Ludlam, and will be published bi-monthly. The contents of the first number of the magazine are:

To the Reader; Our Object—Homeopathy or similar Disease—Small Doses—Specifics and Over-Dosing—To the Point—An Antipathic Dose—Definition of a Physician—The Man who was never Humbugged—Cure of M. le Marechal St. Arnaud—EDITORIAL: Our Course—Modern Drugging—Veterinary Homeopathy—Miscellaneous.

The preface has the following paragraph:—"We conceive that the people are, or should be, most deeply interested in the matter. We wish to invite their inquiries; to stimulate their attention to the laws that govern their healthy organism, and the correct way to repair injuries that result from a violation of those laws; in short, to have our friends intelligent Homeopaths, and to those who oppose Homeopathy what we believe, and the reasons for that belief, so that they may not raise a false issue and do battle with a "man of straw," as too many of them in their ignorance have hitherto done. We begin in an unpretending way; and as we design our sheet mainly for the non-professional reader, we shall strive to avoid all medical technicalities and professional language, except in those situations where the context will explain itself."

The subscription to this work is only 50 cents per annum, and names are received by Drs. Smith and Ludlam, 116 Lake street; Dr. S. W. Graves, 108 Randolph street; or Box 333, Chicago P. O.

ALL HAIL.—The Sons of Temperance are invited to meet at their Hall, corner of Wells and Water Streets, this evening on special business.

S. B. GOWER, S.

Jan. 5, 1854.

☞ Uncle Tom's Cabin continues to draw very good houses at the Theatre, and the piece is performed with more effect on each succeeding evening. We are glad to observe that Miss Rice has overcome the only fault which was perceptible on her first appearance. She now speaks with perfect distinctness, and is easily heard in the most remote portions of the house.

EXCELSIOR SOCIETY.—The Annual Festival of this Society will be held at the Tremont House on Wednesday evening next. Dinner to commence at 5 o'clock; dancing at 9. The sons of the Empire State will undoubtedly have a brilliant "turn out."

MELLEN & Co., 53 Clark street, have received Graham's Magazine for January. This number is the opening one of a new volume, and is a very superb specimen of what American art, taste and talent can achieve in the way of composition and engraving. The literary contents of this number are of more than usual extent and of very great ability and interest. Now is an excellent time to subscribe for this periodical, as it will probably rank among the best productions of the coming year.

S. C. & GRIGGS Co., 111 Lake street, have received the November number of "The North British Review." The table of contents is

'The Life and Times of Madame de Stael—Protestantism in Italy—American Novels—John De Wycliffe, D. D.—Language and Literature of Modern Greece—Candle Making and Christianity—Domestic Service, Nelly Armstrong—Weld's History of the Royal Society—The Religious and Political Relations of Russia."

Subscriptions for this and the other English Reviews will be received by the publisher's agents, S. C. Griggs & Co., 111 Lake street.

A STRANGE THING.

Falsehood in these days is not strange. Imposition and [illegible] are not strange. But honesty and truth, especially in speculative business, is wonderful. For this reason Dr. A. L. Adams' Liver Balsam is fixing the gaze of thousands upon its sure, unvarying and surprising effects [illegible] It promotes excretion in unison with natures own efforts, and thus expels the very impurities which, being retained, generate disease. This Compound is considered by those who have used it, the greatest Medical discovery known. Its praise is declared from the North to the South, and from the East to the West. "It is true; it is true."

☞ See Dr. A. L. Adams' Advertisement in this paper.

BALDNESS CURED.

EMERSON'S AMERICAN HAIR RESTORATIVE.

For Restoring the Hair on Heads [illegible] and to prevent the Hair from falling, is winning golden opinions of persons who are using it. This is a new article, recently introduced, is a sure thing for Baldness, and will stand the test of a discerning public. The Proprietors have such confidence in it that they authorize their Agents to take Bald cases, on GUARANTEE. Price to be agreed upon between the parties. WM. McMILLAN, corner Randolph and State street, Wholesale and Retail Agent for Chicago and surrounding country.

LYON'S KATHAIRON.

☞ We wish to call the attention of the public to a source of luxury, comfort and happiness—to past neglect and a present opportunity of amendment. The numerous cases of baldness in America is truly surprising. The young cannot take warning, or the old apply a remedy too soon.—Who that is old, but would avert baldness? Who that is middle aged but shudders at gray hairs? Who that is young but values the luxuriant locks of youth and beauty? Effects like these are stayed, and many years of otherwise premature old age is regained to youth by using Lyon's Kathairon.

Lyon's Kathairon is but 25 cents, in large bottles. Sold throughout the world, by all dealers. D. S. Barnes, Proprietor, 161 Broadway, N. Y.

WOMEN OF EARLY CHRISTIANITY—A series of very beautifully engraved illustrations of eminently pious women of the earlier ages of christianity, with descriptions by several American Clergymen, handsomely bound, 7,50; morocco 4 to 10, cord gilt 15,00.

In no age or nation has woman ever received greater respect or consideration (so well due her social relation with man) than in these United States, and during the present century. And it is glorious to see, as we advance in civilization and refinement, the beings who control our greatest actions, forming the subjects of our most beautiful works of Literature and Art.

WOMEN OF THE OLD AND NEW TESTAMENT—A series of 18 exquisitely finished engravings, of Female characters of the New Testament; with descriptions by eminent American Clergymen, edited by the Rev. D. Sprague: 1 vol 7,50; morocco ex. 10,00.

WOMEN OF THE BIBLE—Delineated in a series of 18 characteristic steel engravings of Women mentioned in the Holy Scriptures, edited by the Rev. Dr. Wainwright: 1 vol. imperial 8vo, 7,50; mor. ex. 10,00.

The most prominent events of Scriptural History, blended with the holy light of female influence, are here truthfully and graphically delineated. It is indeed a rare book, and laying aside its intrinsic merit, the beauty of its execution makes it a fitting ornament for any lady's centre-table.

OUR SAVIOUR WITH APOSTLES AND PROPHETS—Containing 18 exquisite engravings, edited by Rev. J. M. Wainwright. 1 vol. imperial 8vo, 7,50; morocco bevell'd 10,00; glass richly painted, 20,00.

EXPRESSLY AND EXCLUSIVELY FOR THE CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE.

(By the Southern Michigan Telegraph Line.)

Thirty-Third Congress.—First Session.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.

Mr. Foote gave notice of a bill providing for the construction of Railroad from the Mississippi to the Pacific coast. He said his bill would be a practicable measure, and differing from other projects heretofore submitted to Congress.

On motion of Mr. Hunter, a resolution was passed, directing inquiry as to the expediency of erecting new buildings for State, Interior, War and Navy departments.

Cass moved that the message the other day relating to the Clayton & Bulwer treaty, be referred, and that that motion be postponed and made the order of the day for Tuesday next, on which day he would ask to be heard on the subject. Agreed to.

The private calender was then taken up. One bill passed, and the Senate adjourned until Monday.

HOUSE.—Mr. Dean from the Committee on Foreign Affairs reported a resolution of thanks and gold medal to Capt. Ingraham.

Resolution calling for copies of the correspondence between Secretary of the Treasury and Bronson. After the debate was tabled 146 to 6.

FURTHER BY THE CANADA.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5th.

It is creditably asserted that the British, French, and Turkish fleets entered the Black Sea on the 10th of December, their supposed destination being Sebastople. Three-fourths of the squadron were left to guard Constantinople.—The Czar having frequently declared that the entrance into the Black Sea would be considered by him equivalent to a declaration of war.

The withdrawal of the Russian ministers from Paris and London was immediately looked for. The diplomatic courtiers are as busy as ever.

The Paris journals publish what purports to be a letter of instruction from the four Powers to the Ambassadors at Constantinople, calling on Turkey to acquiesce in a peaceful settlement, with the assurance that Russia intended no infringement of the Turkish sovereignty. It proposes that negotiations shall take place in a neutral country, and that the opening of the conference shall be the signal for an armistice. The letter guarantees the limits of the present Turkish sovereignty. The Sultan's reply was expected to reach Vienna on the 11th Dec.

Several skirmishes on the Danube had taken place. The Russians attacked Kalafat on the 4th of Dec, but were repulsed, with great courage on both sides. On the 10th, two Russian steamers, with gun boats, made an unsuccessful attack on Laktcham.

There is nothing really later from Asia. The general tenor of advices are, that the operations during November were unfavorable to the Turks. It is said that the Persian declaration of war against Turkey, was caused by a direct promise from the Czar to remit the debt and restore a disputed territory to Persia. The Persian Ambassador, after breaking off relations with the Porte, returned to Bagdad.

The relations between the Austrian Minister and the Divan were daily becoming colder, on various pretences.

The vacancy in the English Cabinet, caused by the resignation of Lord Palmerston, remains open.

Smith O'Brien's relatives are not aware that he has escaped from Van Dieman's Land, as reported.

Severe weather had been experienced.

Several shipwrecks are reported.

The ship Niagara, with 150 passengers on board, went ashore at Melbourne. The cargo was saved.

SPAIN.—Mr. Soule, the U. S. Minister, had fought a duel with the Marques De Langor, the French minister, owing to certain remarks of the latter on Mrs. Soule's dress, before referred to. Lord Howden acted as the second of Langor.—A duel has also been fought between the Duke De Alba and young Soule, growing out of the same affair. In either case no harm had been done.

The overland India mail was telegraphed from Trieste on the 23 of Dec. Accounts from Burmah were more satisfactory. The Insurgents keep Kossoeston, of Shanghai, but had been defeated by the Imperial army at Amoy.

LIVERPOOL, Dec. 24.

Shipley & Co., per the Canada, report breadstuffs active in the fore part of the week. The market closing less active. A slight reduction on the extreme rates paid on Tuesday.

The closing price on Friday show an advance since the sailing of the Africa of 6d on flour, 2d on wheat, 1s on corn.

White Wheat 10s 4d@11s; Western Canal Flour 37s@37s 6d; Philadelphia, Ohio and Canadian 37s 6d@38s.

White Indian Corn 46s; Yellow 35s; Mixed 44s 6d.

The receipts for the week very limited.

Provisions—There has been an increased amount of business transactions in beef, but at reduced prices. Sales of 780 bbls. at 85s. A limited business in pork. The former prices were barely sustained. High prices had been obtained for bacon, and quotations are raised to 47s. Lard in request.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.

Senate.—Mr. Foote gave notice of a bill for a Railroad to the Pacific.

Mr. Cass moved that the message of the President relative to the Clayton and Bulwer Central American Treaty be made the order of the day for Tuesday. Agreed to.

House.—Mr. Dean, from committee on foreign relations, reported a resolution of thanks and a gold medal to Capt. Ingraham.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.

The steamship Illinois arrived this morning with California dates to the 23d of Nov.

News has been already anticipated from New Orleans.

She brings $100,000 in freight, and $200,000 in the hands of passengers.

We notice in the California papers an account of the murder of B. W. Mitchell, of Chenango Co., N. Y.

Dates from Melbourne to Oct. 22, have been received.

Trade generally dull. Flour quoted £32@33 per ton.

The mines are yielding favorably. One nugget weighing 136 pounds has been found at Sailors' Gully.

It is reported that the steamship Empire City, from New Orleans, for this port, went ashore off Barongate. No particulars yet.

Another meeting of the Purham lottery ticket holders was held last evening, when Messrs. Ira Buckman and E. Bentley were appointed a committee with full power to determine the manner and place for distribution. It is understood that the drawings will take place at Washington in a week.

The Daily News learns that Kossuth left London for Constantinople Dec. 23.

A MEDICINE FOR ALL SEASONS.

Wright's Indian Vegetable Pills suit all complaints and all ages, and may be taken at all times, and under all circumstances, with perfect safety. They are natural to the human constitution as food; and while they do not injure even the most delicate, there is scarcely a malady in the whole catalogue of human ills, but will yield to their influence.

Wright's Indian Vegetable Pills thoroughly cleanse the stomach and bowels from bilious and putrid humors, and purify the blood; and are, therefore, certain to drive pain or distress of every description from the body.

The Greatest Discovery of the Age.

PROFESSOR WOOD

OFFERS FOR SALE A PERFECT HAIR RESTORATIVE. It will in a short time restore the hair, which has become gray, permanently to its original color, bring it out where it is gone, and arrest it where it is falling off, clean the head of the dandruff and itching, removes all cutaneous eruptions, and renders the scalp perfectly healthy by restoring the secretive organs to their original vigor and strength, and thus supply nutriment and coloring matter to it. It does not color the hair, but is, in short, a perfect hair invigorator and tonic; in proof of which, he will select from the mass the following certificates, viz:

STATE OF ILLINOIS, Carlyle, June 27, 1852.

I have used Prof. O. J. Wood's Hair Restorative, and have admired its wonderful effect. My hair was becoming, as I thought, prematurely gray, but by the use of his Restorative, it has resumed its original color, and I think permanently so. SIDNEY BREESE, Ex Senator United States.

VINCENNES, Ind., June 15, 1852.

Prof. O. J. Wood—Dear Sir—As you are about to manufacture extensively, and vend your recently discovered Hair Restorative, I will state, for whomsoever it may concern, that I have for several years been in the habit of using other Hair Restoratives, and that I find yours far superior to any other I know. It entirely cleanses the head of dandruff, and with one month's proper use, will restore any person's hair to the original youthful color and texture, giving it a healthy, soft and glossy appearance, and all this without disturbing either the hands which apply it, or the dress on which it drops. I would therefore recommend its use to every one desirous of having a fine color and texture to their hair. WILSON KING.

BUFFALO AND NEW YORK CITY RAIL ROAD.

THE undersigned are authorized to contract Freights from Buffalo to New York via this Road, and also from Buffalo to Hornellsville, and all intermediate stations.

The New York and Erie R. R. from N. Y. to Hornellsville, and the Buffalo and N. Y. City R. R. from Hornellsville to Buffalo, affords the quickest and most reliable route for Freight from New York to Buffalo and the west.

The facilities for shipping to and from Buffalo by steam around the Lakes, and via the Mich. Central and Southern Railroads, give this a great advantage over the Dunkirk route. Greater despatch may therefore be expected.

Freight sent through between New York and Buffalo without change of cars. Chicago, April 19, 1853. GEO. A. GIBBS & CO.

Chicago Female Seminary

NO'S 166, 168, & 170 CLARK ST.

A. J SAWYER, A. M., & LADY, PRINCIPALS.

THE WINTER TERM OF THIS INSTITUTION will commence on MONDAY, NOV. 21, 1853. No pains have been spared to secure, for the coming year, Teachers of the highest rank in every department. Most of the former teachers will remain, while three Graduates of superior Eastern Seminaries, and teachers of acknowledged ability, have been added to the number.

Native teachers in German and French—the gentlemen in the latter at great expense—have been secured.

A Music Room has been provided, and the former teacher in this department will devote her whole time to the members of the institution, so that young Ladies can take their music lessons without walking home, or losing recitations. An experienced Teacher will have charge of the class in Painting and Drawing.—The Principals are determined to merit the liberal patronage they are receiving.

DRUGS & MEDICINES.

We would say to all our readers, and particularly to strangers, who need the services of an expert Dentist, to call at the Dental Rooms of DR. HOLT, where they will be sure to have correct and judicious advice given them, free of charge, respecting the preservation of their own or children's Teeth. The Doctor comes from New York, in which city he has been practicing as a Dentist during the past sixteen years, in Broadway, and brings letters of introduction, and is highly recommended to a large number of our first citizens. Dr. Holt performs operations in Dentistry without causing the least pain, by using the celebrated fluid, which he has used in his hands the means of saving thousands of teeth, which otherwise treated, would have been pulled tugged, dragged, or broken out. GOOD EATING AND HEALTH.

GREAT CURE FOR DYSPEPSIA!

DR. HOUGHTON'S PEPSIN, THE True Digestive Fluid, or Gastric Juice, prepared from Rennet, or the Fourth Stomach of the Ox, after the directions of Baron Liebig, the great Physiological Chemist, by J. S. HOUGHTON, M. D., Philadelphia, Pa. This is NATURE'S OWN REMEDY for an unhealthy Stomach. No art of man can equal its curative powers. It contains no ALCOHOL, BITTERS, ACIDS, or NAUSEOUS DRUGS. It is extremely agreeable to the taste, and may be taken by the most feeble patients who cannot eat a water cracker without acute distress. Beware of DRUGGED IMITATIONS. Pepsin is NOT A DRUG.

Call on the Agent and get a Descriptive Circular, gratis, giving a large amount of SCIENTIFIC EVIDENCE, from Liebig's Animal Chemistry; Dr. Combe's Physiology of Digestion; Dr. Pereira on Food and Diet; Dr. John W. Draper, of New York University; Prof. Dunglison's Physiology; Prof. Silliman, of Yale College; Dr. Carpenter's Physiology, &c., together with reports of CURES from all parts of the United States.

Sold in Chicago by Dr. S. Sawyer, J. H. Reed, F. Scammon, Rae & Baldwin, J. Sears, Jr., Wholesale and Retail Agents.

F. BROWN'S ESSENCE OF JAMAICA GINGER.—This Essence is a preparation of unusual excellence. In ordinary diarrhoea, incipient cholera, in short, in all cases of prostration of the digestive functions, it is of inestimable value. During the prevalence of epidemic cholera and summer complaints of children, it is peculiarly efficacious. No family, individual, or traveller, should be without it, as it enables the system to resist the influence of incidental changes, such as are felt in a changing climate.

CAUTION.—Be sure to get the genuine Essence, which is prepared only by F. Brown, at his Drug and Chemical Store, N. E. corner of Fifth and Chestnut streets, Philadelphia, and for sale by all the respectable apothecaries in the United States, and in Chicago by [illegible]

CLOTHING AND FURNISHING STORE

59 Clark St., Five Doors South of the Post-Office.

WE wish to inform our friends and the Public in general, that we are now receiving our Stock of Fall and Winter Goods, and we think for Quality, Good Taste, Durability and Low Prices, they cannot be equalled by any other Establishment in the city. Among our new arrivals we have a Splendid assortment of Cloths, Cassimeres, Doeskins, and Vestings, which we will make up to order in the most Fashionable style, and warranted to fit. Also, always on hand a good assortment of Furnishing Goods, and Ready Made Clothing, well and tastily got up. [illegible] J. B. PERRY.

227 The Empire Clothing Store. 227

E. B. HURD & CO.

HAVE opened the Store 227 Lake street, which they are now filling with a new and complete stock of CLOTHING and GENTS FURNISHING GOODS, and which they now offer, wholesale and retail, at such prices as defy all competition.

E. B. HURD & CO. would respectfully intimate that having a large Wholesale manufactory in Connecticut, from which they daily send out to all parts of the Union, an immense supply of every description of Clothing, they have facilities peculiar to themselves for supplying the public with a well made article, and of such style and workmanship as will insure the admiration of all who honor them with a call.

COUNTRY MERCHANTS, especially, will find it to their interest to give us a call before either making a purchase in Chicago, or proceeding to any Eastern market. We can sell at New York prices, thus saving insurance freight, and the expense of a journey to that city. Our goods are made by first-rate workmen and at less expense than they can possibly be made in a new city. And our terms are prompt payment and small profits, none of our customers will have to pay for other people's bad debts.

E. B. Hurd & Co. intend to make their establishment in reality The Empire Clothing Store, which shall be worthy the patronage of Gentlemen of refined taste, and where the farmer and the mechanic will be able to obtain the cheapest and the best of Cloths.

Mark the address, 227 Lake Street near the corner of Franklin St.
